

Art, Education and Sport

Natural Resources and Civilizations

Art

Art acts as a collective memory of society.

Art expresses how it felt to exist in a particular time.

Art helps you process your emotions and understand your surroundings.

Albert Einstein

"Imagination is more important than knowledge. For knowledge is limited to all we know and understand, while imagination embraces the entire world, and all there ever will be to know and understand."

Art through natural resources

Building

Ornamental

Gem

Utilitarian

Egyptian Art

- Paintings, sculptures, drawings on papyrus, faience, jewelry, ivories, architecture

Education

Education gives everyone a chance to acquire new knowledge and learn skills that may help improve their life.

Education also helps society to appreciate themselves, their ambitions and knowledge from an early age, and to understand that we have been given a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Ancient Egypt 3000+ years

Developed two types of formal schools for privileged youth under the supervision of governmental officials

One for scribes and the other for priest trainees.

At the age of 5, pupils entered the writing school and continued their studies in reading and writing until the age of 16 or 17.

Beyond disciplines

Religious education and philosophy were taught alongside secular subjects, impressing upon students a strong moral foundation.

They believed you became wise by following moral principles, such as truth.

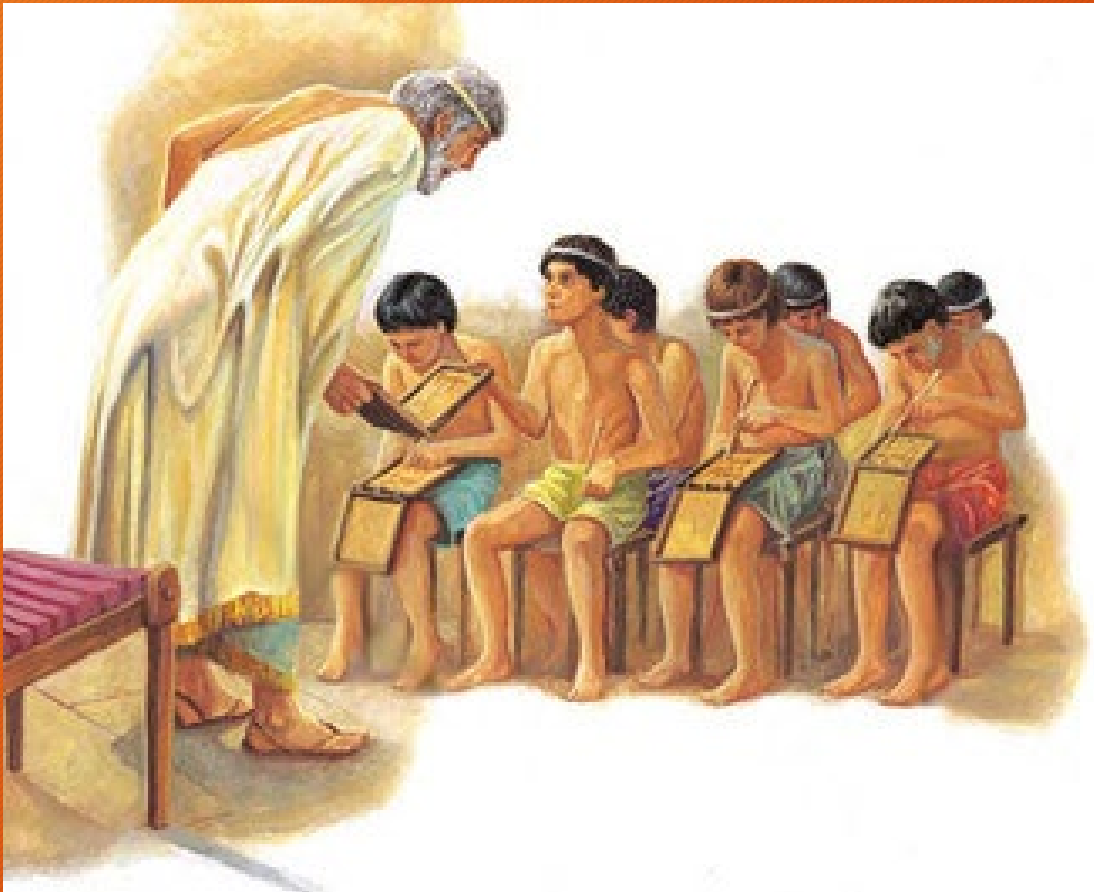

There is no doubt ancient Egyptians held education in high regard and saw it as a privilege.

Egyptian girls

Were not permitted to go to school. They were instructed at home by their mothers, with the expectation that they would become wives and mothers themselves, tutored in the arts of cooking, sewing, religion, and reading.

Ancient Rome 1100 years

Rome never formally instituted a state-sponsored form of elementary education.

They never legally required its people to be educated on any level

Roman children of wealthy families received their education from private tutors.

Roman girls

The education of women was a controversial subject in the Roman period. Basic skills of reading and writing were taught to most girls in the Roman upper and middle classes

Sport in our Civilizations

Sporting events bring disparate people together by strengthening ties and celebrating the common ideals of fairness, sacrifice and hope.

Sport in Ancient Egyptian

Fishing, rowing, javelin-throwing, boxing, wrestling, weightlifting, and gymnastics. The most frequently played team sport was field hockey and a game like a tug-of-war played with a hoop. Archery was also popular but mainly associated with the nobility and royalty.

